KNOXVILLE, TENN., Dec. 3, 1863.

I have written yon frequently within the past two weeks, giving you brief accounts of the principal events and incidents of the siege.

Nineteen days we have been hemmed in and surrounded by a hostile force of 20,000 men, but the beleaguered city and its gallant garrison still hold out. We are confident of our ability to hold Knoxville against its present besiegers. Skirmishing has continued incessantly day and night for more than two weeks, and in several engagements we have defeated the enemy with great slaughter. The defeated the enemy with great slaughter. The rebels, with seven picked regiments, as-saulted and attempted to take For: Sanders saulted and attempted to the Fort Santers by storm, on last Sunday morning at daylight. The Fort is located on the left extremity of our line of treuches and earthen works, north of the Holston river. The enemy was defeated after a desperate and hand-to-hand fight of half an haur's duraration and driven back in the wildest consider the property of the sunday of th fusion, leaving over three hundred dead and wounded on the field and two hundred and woulded on the life and and so our own loss was less than one-fourth that of the Confederates. Three battle-flags and seven hundred stand of arms were captured by our forces. The ditch around the fort, after the assault, was filled with rebel dead and wounded. Generals commanding the opposing armies, and hostilities were suspended from 10 o'clock A. M. till 7 o'clock P. M., in order that the and hostilities were suspended from 10 o'clock A. M., till 7 o'clock P. M., in order that the dead might be buried and the wounded exchanged and properly cared for. While the truce was pending, peace and silence prevailed, and, for the first time is fourteen days, our pickets dared emerge from thoir rille-pits, and our soldiers stalked with impunity upon the lines of breastworks and the parapets of the forts. While the work of disposing of the dead and wounded was progressing, some of ours and the rebel surgeons and other officers met upon the neutral ground between the two lines of trenches, partook together of refreshments and commingled in social and frieodly converse. Of the rebel officers present there was Gen. Gracie, a tall, awkward, and ungainly individual, with an angular visage and coarse, yellow hair. His mouth was bad, and, in default of molars, he munched his tobacco between the front teeth, talking rapidly the between the front teeth, talking rapidly the while, though rather unintelligibly, on account of a provoking impediment in his speech. He was the oracle of the enemy. Gen. Gracie pronounced the assault on Fort Sanders by the rebelage illedwiged and engiged, and one the rebels as ill-advised and snieidal, and openly condemned Gen. Longstreet for permitting or ordering such a thing.

Simultaneous with the charge on Fort Sanders, an attack was made by the enemy upon our forces on the south side of the river, nearly directly opposite Knoxsville. Our arms were again victorious, and at 10 o'clock Gen. Manson reported the defeat of the enemy, the famous Dr. Garnett, sendhalaw of Wise, the man who called upon thousands of Virginians to help in the hangles of Juhu Brown, was sold under the con-Our supply of provisions can yet be made to last for twenty days, I think. The paramount difficulty we experience is the complete destitution of forage for the animals.

Freat numbers of horses and mules have been driven beyond the picket lines, and charitably turned loose to battle with starvation, yet a little while upon the barren mouotaios. Poor brutes! I saw some of them this morning that after eating the 5th wheel from the artillery caissons, and absolutely devouring the hair off each other's backs had fallen dead from hunger and cold, chained and fettered to the ground they stool upon. We cannot sympathize deeply, though, with suffering mules when brave men are dying every day from the bullets of the enemy, and the hospitals are filled with sick works occupied by General Manson's troops on the right. It is uncertain when a general engagement will take place, but when it does come, we will be found prepared and alive to every emergency.

Our scouts and conriers bring us glorious news from General Grant at Chattanooga. Its reception has buoyed the hearts and strengthened the arms of our noble soldier boys. They are elated and exultant over our noble and the strengthene and have made thomselves boarse success, and have made thomselves hoarse with prolonged and repeated cheering, thereby disgnsting and exasperating all the tidings of our victories all the brass bands in our army betook them to the outer walls and poured torth a volley of harmony, dwelling long and loud upon "Yankee Doodle," for the benefit of the rebel auditory. No one knows how long the boys would have kept on playing if the wrath-choked Confederate skirmishers hadu't apitefully shot at them.

We are informed that the resignation of Major-General Burnside has been accepted, and that we must soon bid adjeut to our gull ant and that we must soon bid adieu to our gallant and beloved commander. May joy and God's forth cast. He has the warmest wishes of all of his soldiers, who have learned to love him as they do but few. In his retirement he will carry with him the hearis of all those whose good good fostune it has been to serve under his good fostune it has been to serve under his command. His heroic defeuce of Knoxville, and the bravery, good judgment, and generalship which he has shown in all the battles which have thus far been fought, will add another leaf to his laurels, and a new star to the hanlet that crowns him.

REFORT OF POSTMASTER-GENERAL. The report of the Postmaster General states the receipts of the year at $11,163,789 59, and the expenditures at $11,314,206 84, leaving a deficiency of $150,417 25. Within another year it is expected to be self-sustaining. In 800 the excess of expenditures was $3,560,-566 25. The cost of postal service is $3,500,-000 less than before the rebellion, while the receipts have increased more than $2,600,000.
The increase of revenue over 1862 is $2,863,-

The number of posteffices, including the lebel States, is 29,047, being an increase during the year of 172. The President appoints 550 postmasters, and the Postmaster-General 28,497; 830 postoffices have been established during the year, and 658 discontinued.

In July the system of delivering mail matter by carriers was put into operation at forty-nine of the larger offices. Exprience demonstrates that correspondence increases with every facility for its conduct. In New York there were delivered by carriers 2,059,418 leting the first quarter, being an increase of 968,829 letters, or 25 per cent. over the last quarter of the preceding year under the old system. The postage on foreign letters was $1,225,675 21, an increase of $80,579 39 over last year. Of this amount, $757,030 was collected in the United States and $467,636 22 in Europe. The postage on Canada letters was $225,743 30, or $47,989 70 over last year. Of this $124,480 45 was collected in the United States, and $101,262 85 in the British Prov-

The number of postoffices in operation during the year was 20,645. The number of deed letters received and examined was 2,550-416, or 268,398 more than last year. The number containing money was 18,527, amounting to $77,861, showing an increase of $,052 letters, and in money of $31,322. Of these, 15,048 were delivered to their owners, but many of them were self-to a second thing, and some three or four times, before reaching them. The number of dead letters covering valuable papers was 8,332, representing $15,-444,277 81. The dead letters containing photographs numbered 10,918; those containing invelve, 764, and 897 with other articles. Of tographs numbered 19,315, those constanting jewelry, 764, and 897 with other articles. Of the whole number sent to the dead letter office, 8,273 were restored to the writers. The loss of valuable letters from the army is largely traced to dishonest letter carriers in the militery service and further loss is attributed to

EVENING DESPATORES. WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.

The report of the General-in-Chief is a very engthy document, and is mainly a grand summary of military operations since his last annual report. Referring to the Department of the Potomac the General says Burnside's proposed change of base was not approved by him. Europide therefore consented to eross his proposed change of base was not approved by him. Burnside therefore consented to cross his army by the fords of the Upper Raposhannock and then movedown to seize the Heights of Fredericksburg, while a small force was to be sent north of the river to enable Haupt to rcopen the railroad. This plan was assented to but not approved.

Burnside, instead of crossing the Rappahannock by fords, as he was expected to do, marched his whole army down to the north bank of that river.

Burnside pronounced it so.

As to the situation of affairs in Grant's department, the General-in-Chief says it has been alleged that Grant positively disobeyed the instructions of his superiors. It is hardly necessary to remark that Grant never disobayed an order. who had money. This money was spent for

ULLIANT AFFAIR-COMPLETE ROUT OF A n of GURRILLAS .- We have just received lligence of a brilliant affair that took place on the 8th inst., near Great Western irnece, Stuart county, Tennessee, about 12 iles from Canton, Kentncky. The gucrilla, ol. Martin, who lately robbed the citizens in hat section of nearly all they possessed, assed through Golden Pond, Tenn., with his rang, on the day above mentioned, taking orses, and plundering indiscriminately. The itizens of the neighborhood organized a quad of fifteen men, composed principally of large in immense force. he late 8th Kentucky cavalry, headed by ohn Martin and F. M. Oakly, and started in rsuit of the guerillas. They came upon hem about midnight, in camp, eating a super, fornished them by one Dawsy Griffin. e citizens demanded a surrender, which was nsed by the rchel leader, and the order was iven by Martin to charge upon them, which vas done in a handsome manner, resulting in complete rout, and the capture of all their horses, clothing, camp equipage, and ontrabands. Three of the rebels were on the spot. This is one of the most cessful expeditions that has lately been nade, and the gentlemen concerned in it are titled to great credit. The citizens of that elves, and we only wish that their brilliant xample will he imitated by the people of our wn State who are molested by thieving rerillas.

CRIME -The frequency of blurgaries and NOTICES OF THE DAY. robbeties in our city during the past few weeks, is beginning to alarm 'our citizeus, and we hope it will lead to the establishment of a police force sufficient to protect us. The city is full of thieves. Every one at all conversant with police matters is aware of this fact. From what we can learn, the same deplorable state of affairs exist in other cities. At Indianapolis, one night last week, seven men were knocked down in various parts of the city, and robbed. Two men were slungshotted in front of the Palmer House. One lost his watch. Another man was slung-shotted near the corner of Illinois and Washington streets, but before the thieves could get $1,400 he had with him, passers-by interfered. A house was robbed of $400 and a gold watch. These crimes were committed between the hours of eight and nine o'clock in the even-

At St. Louis, the bold and dashing performance of a number of scoundrels, a few evenings since, in robbing two gentlemen on a street car of near $1,000, and the not less daring act of another robber in taking, in broad daylight, from a periodical store, over $100 in Treasury notes-these and other incidents fully attest the assumption that thieves, burglars, pick-pockets, muggers, canfidence men, and, indeed, scoundrels of every kind are at

But we are not prepered to report, so soon after the notorious robbery of the United States Express office at that plece some weeks since, a case in some degree rivalling that magnificent performance of abstracting $60,000 and leaving the party in charge of the office asleep with cbloroform! But we have to record a robbery as adroitly planned, and more successful than that stupendous exploit. The office of the North Missouri Railroad was, sometime during Wednesday evening, robbed of between $25,000 and $27,000, and the "job," to speak in professional parlance, was so elegantly executed, that it may have been done at eny time between 31/2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and 8 o'clock Thursday morning. eighborhood know how to take care of them- | when the paymaster returned to the office,

THE LADIES' FAIR .- We understand that the nference drawn from our notice of the Ladies' Falr in yesterday's issue left the impression that the Fair was exclusively for the families of soldiers. It was not our intention to make this discrimination, as there are numerous poor families in our city who have no connections in the army, hut are no less worthy of the charities of our citizens. We are requested by the ladies having the Fair in charge to state that it is given for the benefit of the poor generally in our city, and the proceeds will be devoted, without any discrimination whatever, other than to bestow them where they are most needed. We regret very much if anything we have said has tended to alienate any of our citizens from this noble work of charity, and we hope that this explanation will be deemed satisfactory by all who are disposed to help the poor of our city. The Fair opens on Monday evening, and will continue every night through-

RE-ENLISTMENT OF INDIANA TROOPS .- It has been stated that the 10th Indiana battery, in the Army of the Potomac, had concluded to re-enlist for the war. We also learn that there is a general movement among Indiana troops in General Cruft's command to re-enlist as veteran volunteers. The 9th Indiana have offered to re-enlist in a body, provided they can have thirty days' furlough. There is little doubt that this offer will be accepted. The 9th is one of the best fighting regiments in New Jersey, recruits have to sign ten | the service, and in the battles of Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge won favorable mention for their gallant conduct. In the latter engagement the 9th Indiana had the advance, and were so anxious to have the post of honor, that they refused to accept the offer of relief when it was tendered them. Two agents ot the State of Indiana arrived at headquarters of the Army of the Cumberland on the 1st December, to urge the re-enlistment

Gnerillas are very troublesome in the border counties of Kentucky. The forces of Hughes, Ferguson, Smith, and Hamilton are n Cumberland county, south of the Cumberland river, and they often make ralds to the north side, and steal whatever they want. A portion of rebel cavalry are constantly on the north side of the river, at Burksville and Tompkinsville, but they generally fall back to the river when our forces advance. It is reported that these forces will unite into one band and advance in two columns from Burksville and Tompkinsville, forming a junction at Paces, in Barren county, and then advance and attack our forces stationed at Glasgow. and if successful, make a raid upon the Nash-

On Saturday, the 51h of December, Thos. S. Venable, a citizen of Owensboro, mysteriously disappeared, and, although diligent search has been made, no trace can be found of him. He is a young man about 22 years of age; with red hair, fair complexion, about five feet six or seven inches high, and weighs about 120 pounds, and apparently of frail and delicate constitution. Any information that may be given of Mr. Venable will be handsomely rewarded, by application to W. Il. Frayser, at 1023 Jefferson street. d12 d3
